Dear Hiring Manager,

With this letter, I hereby wish to state my interest and apply for the open position at your company. I am an industrial designer who's passionate with product design and problem solving, and your company seem to me the best place to continue with my passion.

When I was four years old, I moved with my family from Germany to Spain and have lived there since then. Influenced by my artistic mother, who worked as a sculptress, I have developed a strong passion towards design in the early time of my childhood. Noticing the interest and talent that I possessed for arts, my mother guided me toward this field and I started to make models and to build products at the age of nine. After finishing my high school, I moved to Barcelona to study industrial design engineering and product development at the UPC.

The study of fundamental industrial engineering courses, such as design structure, mechanics and materials science, made me understand that product design does not focus only on visuals and aesthetic, but also emphasizes on the more essential function and practical aspects of an object. Thanks to the new skills and knowledge gained from the University, I realized that design is not only an art, but technology. Studies have provided me a deeper comprehension of science and its cultural influences.

I consider myself as a creative and multicultural influenced person with a view for critical points and able to consider the pros and cons when it comes to product design. My toppest strength is the fact that I can quickly analyze the different sceneries and applications that could be given to a product, also to pinpoint the improvements that can be achieved. I enjoy to pay attention to small details, in order to obtain a better final result, I am always open to new challenges, and also seeking for opportunities to challenge myself and try to become a better designer and person.

After carefully reviewing all your prescribed requirements, I believe that being part of your team would not only provide a fresh and insightful viewpoint on design to your company, but would also give me the framework to utilize my full potentials. In my opinion your philosophy is directly linked with what I am expecting from a work place and I would definitely give the best to maintain it. I would love to become part of your crew and be able to improve the company's quality as well as mine.

Kind regards,
